In the Night Museum

In the Night Museum,
a soft green light blossoms beneath a cabinet of chilled dinosaur bones.

In the Night Museum,
mist creeps across the floor, and a suit of tarnished armour breaks into a cold sweat

In the Night Museum,
a stuffed dodo,
dead as a donut,
opens one beady eye
and shakes it's dusty feathers.

In the Night Museum,
the statue of a Roman emperor flexes its cold muscles as its marble hands stretch.

In the Night Museum,
toy soldiers rampage,
a stuffed eagle soars
and a lion long gone
opens its jaws and roars.

In the Night Museum,
only the caretaker is still,
dozing downstairs;
awaking now, to the sound of bad news prowling
through the darkened

Night Museum...
