I am learning to use apostrophes for possession.

The rays belonging to the sun shone on the ground.

Can be written as...

The sun's rays shone on the ground.

Do the same with the following sentences

1. The reindeer belonging to Santa flew through the air.
2. The harp belonging to the giant was played by the princess.
3. The tail belonging to the dog wagged.
4. The books that belong to Jane were read to the children.
5. The wheel on that belong to the car have a puncture.

Add apostrophes to the following sentences.

The childrens teacher was collecting their books in to be marked, when she dropped the pile on the floor. "This classrooms a mess!" she shouted.

Answer the following questions, in full sentences, putting an apostrophe where appropriate. The first one has been done as an example.

1. Whose crown is covered in precious jewels?

Answer - The Queen's crown is covered in precious jewels.

2. Whose roar was very loud?
3. Whose teeth were extremely sharp?
4. Whose nose is a carrot?
5. Whose goal was a record breaker?
6. Whose test score was the highest in the class?

Can you write some of your own sentences using the apostrophe to show possession?
