Internet Safety – Editing Task

The internet is great! It can help you discover lots of new and exciting things. It allows you to talk to people on the other side of the world, or you can just use it to play lots of amusing games instead.

The internet is fun, but do you know how to stay safe when using it? What should you do if something upsets you? Is it ok to play online games with your friends? Follow these top tips to help stay safe online:

- Passwords must be kept safe. Someone using your password could pretend to be you. It also gives them access to your personal files.
- The following personal details shouldn't be shared online: your name, phone number, home address, email address or school address.
- Always inform an adult when going online. They should know what you are doing.
- Ask an adult to help you when looking for new things. You might see something which upsets you.
- Mean words can hurt your feelings. Tell an adult if you read anything which makes you unhappy. Don't let cyberbullies get away with it!
- Meeting people you have talked to online can be dangerous! Online friends are still strangers. They may not be who they say they are.
- Talk to parents about using parental controls to ensure you only have access to games which are suitable for your age. These controls can also limit internet browsing.

The internet can be a great tool if you stay smart, stay safe and remember these top tips.
