Dear Parents and Carers,

We are very pleased to be back after a very well deserved Easter break for children and grown-ups alike! The term has started fantastically well with the children ready to learn and showing fantastic behaviour with great manners. We are very pleased that the sunshine is sticking around and that the grass on the field is staying dry!

We have adjusted the curriculum slightly for this term in response to school closure and the kinds of activities that the children need at the moment. We have started our “Good to be Me” project and the children have been learning this week using books that cover a range of issues around diversity and well-being. We will return to this project in the final week of term. Years 1-6 will also be studying an artist this term and teachers have planned some fantastic creative opportunities. The curriculum outlines can be viewed on our website using these links:

We are also on the look-out for any wooden planks, spare lengths of decking, wooden crates or anything of that sort that the children can use for large outdoor construction and adventurous play. Anything you may have will be gratefully received!

NSPCC Number Day – Friday 7th May

This was postponed for us from February as we were in lockdown and so we have rescheduled our Maths themed day to Friday 7th May. Children will be learning around a range of mathematical themes and there will be a TTRS Mastermind style competition. We also invite them all to come to school dressed up as a Times Tables Rock Star (please see the photo below from our last number day for some inspiration!). On the day, we also invite children to bring in a voluntary donation which will go to the NSPCC.

Best wishes

Mrs Kate Law - Head of School
